Milwaukee Ballet Tempts Audiences with New Dance Drama, Dorian Gray
~ Michael Pink adds to master storyteller legacy with premiere of famous cautionary tale ~

MILWAUKEE – January 13, 2016 – Milwaukee Ballet proudly presents Dorian Gray, the newest story ballet from the creative mind of Michael Pink, based on Oscar Wilde’s infamous novel, “The Picture of Dorian Gray.” Pink’s scintillating interpretation explores the pursuit of eternal youth and the consequences of succumbing to its temptation, leaving the audience to ponder, “What is your soul worth?”

“The questions at the heart of Dorian Gray are so wonderfully rich and complex. As a storyteller, I have an incredible wealth of material to draw from,” says Artistic Director Michael Pink. “While complex, the themes are also universal: morality, immortality, the selfish pursuit of beauty in all its forms. When you add the emotional performances of the dancers, the stylized sets and costumes, and the cinematic score, the audience is bound to be captivated. If you enjoyed Dracula and Mirror Mirror, you’ll love this as well.”

Pink reassembled the creative team which produced his blockbusters Dracula and Peter Pan: including celebrated British composer Philip Feeney; lighting designer David Grill, who recently won his third Primetime Emmy Award for his work on the Super Bowl Halftime Show; and New York-based costume and scenic designer Todd Edward Ivins (Mirror Mirror). Michael Pink also cast Milwaukee-based actor James Zager to portray Lord Henry, and serve as the story’s narrator.

Dorian Gray is the most recent installment of original, full-length works Michael Pink has premiered in Milwaukee, including Mirror Mirror (2014), La Bohème (2013), and Peter Pan (2010), which PBS broadcast nationally in 2014. His version of Dracula, which opened the Ballet’s 2015/16 season, remains internationally-renowned for its haunting beauty. His very unique style of dance drama has earned Pink the esteemed moniker, “master storyteller.”

This will be the first full-length work Milwaukee Ballet will ever present at the historic Pabst Theater, running Feb. 12-14 and 19-21. This will also be the first time the Milwaukee Ballet Orchestra will play at The Pabst. Milwaukee Ballet remains one of the only ballet companies in the nation to maintain its own orchestra.
Dorian Gray is presented by Sue and Allan “Bud” Selig, through their support of the Campaign for New Work. It is also sponsored by The Cudahy Foundation, The National Endowment for the Arts, and the Cream City Foundation (the Will Radler Fund, the Sutton Place Fund, and the Valentine Fund). Philip Feeney’s commissioned score is sponsored by Katie Heil. The 2015/16 Season of Literary Classics is presented by Donna and Donald Baumgartner, with operational support from the United Performing Arts Fund.
